Population is the group of people or objects used in a study.