Bivariate data describes the correlation or relationship between two sets of data or variables.