

A random sample is a group selected randomly or at random from a population to represent the population.